VOL. 45 EMPORIUM, PA., THURSDAY, APRIL 13, 1911. NO. 9.

Caught in the Yard.

Mr. G. W. Metzger, station master for the P. R. R., at Warren, passed through our city Saturday, enroute for York, Pa., where he will visit relatives and friends for a few days. Mr. Metzger is one of the pioneer railroad men of this country, having been promoted from fireman to engineer in 1863 and has been in railrord service 41 years. In May 1898 he had one leg cut off by his engine and in April 1897 he lost the other leg, which left him in bad shape, but with a strong heart that no misfortune could put down, he secured artificial limbs and gets about nicely and one would hardly notice his loss if attention was not called to the fact. Mr. Metzger holds a pass on the P. R. R., dated November 1866, which is a great relic. He worked for Andrew Carnegie before entering the service of the railroad company and that gentleman counts Mr. Metzger as one of his warmest friends. The genial veteran is a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and is also prominent in many other fraternal orders. He is well known all along the line. The PRESS wishes him continued years of health and happiness.

Miss R. L. Brink, operator at Sterling Run, was taken suddenly ill Sunday afternoon while on duty and at this writing is quite ill.

Engineer Jas. Mills has been on the sick list for some time but has again resumed duty.

A consignment of base ball suits, shoes, mits, masks and bats consigned to Thomas Law, arrived in town Monday. Manager Law expects to begin practice in a few days. Mr. Carl Blair the east end tea merchant, has been engaged to coach the team and Charles Jones will captain the force.

We are glad to see Agent Thomas Gallagher back at the old stand, looking much improved and his many friends wish for his continued good health.

Agent John Snyder of Cameron left Monday evening for a two weeks' vacation and will visit Philadelphia, Atlantic City and other eastern points.

Third trick operator Bitner holds the championship for the best ginseng hunter in eastern Penna. He is a first operator also.

Train dispatcher Young, of Renovo, is taking a three day inspection trip over the division this week. Mr. Young is well pleased with the work of the block system and pronounces the Pennsy system of blocking trains the best in the country.

The Pullman private car Etonia with Mr. Eaton and party of Buffalo enroute to Atlantic City, passed through Emporium Sunday morning.

Telegrapher Clarence Johnson of Huntley, called on friends in town Saturday.

Anybody wishing garden seeds will do well to call on yard clerk Geo. Welsh.

Miss Ethel Fisher is holding the second trick at Wistar tower for the present. Miss Fisher is proving to be an efficient telegrapher and her success is assured.

Operator Sullivan while working at Cameron has been obliged to walk home many times on account of no trains to take him up to the "Powder City." In accordance with the rules and regulations he moved under regular orders, a copy of the last one is herewith presented:

19-Order No. 94. Opr Sullivan, Cameron. Renovo, Pa, April 10th, 1911. Opr. Sullivan will run extra, Cameron to Emporium on eastward track with rights over hand-cars, ground-hogs wild-cats and other obstructions, lookout for rough spots on right of way. If unable to run extra on account of sore feet he may walk extra under above instructions and in passing JN tower and the yardmaster office, will tip his hat to the operators, yardmaster and clerks, make suitable remarks about the weather and the political situation, continuing on to his humble domicile, kiss his family and take a full tank of rolled oats and Arbuckle's coffee and not kick about the high cost of siving or the Mexican war, and be darn thankful he is living in the good old town of Emporium. Sigued, J. E. O'Leary. Completed by Theo. Newton.

Geo. Beattie says:

We know of a young car inspector,
Whose habits are strictly correct, sir;
With his old woollen socks,
He panked a hot box,
And put a brass in the injector.

A Good Time Coming.

The ladies of the Presbyterian Church will give a home talent entertainment in the opera house, Wednesday evening, April 26th.

Big Timber Cut.

It is stated that the Central Pennsylvania Lumber Company will begin at once to cut out 50,000,000 feet of standing hemlock timber on their tract between Penfield and Force, along the Pennsylvania railroad. A crew of men has already started in to lay the switch from the Pennsy tracks and it is expected that the jobbers will shortly start in on the actual cutting. The logs will be hauled to the company's mills at Williamsport where they will be made up in lumber.

The tract that is to be cleaned up by this operation is the last big tract of lumber in that region; in fact it is said to be the last one in this entire region. The Elk Tanning Company, which owned a large tract in this region has about competled their operation, and John E DuBois tract at Hicks Run is just about cleaned up.

The cutting of this large body of timber will give employment to a large number of men for some time and will make the industry lively, but after it is gone that section will not know the sound of the woodsman's axe for generations.

Friday Afternoon Fire.

Last Friday afternoon, shortly after five o'clock, the home of Mr. George Curtis and family, on West Sixth street, owned by Mr. John Kelley, was discovered to be on fire. The alarm was quickly sounded and the Hamilton Hose Company responded followed closely by the Mountaineer Hose Company with the chemical wagon. The second story of the dwelling was completely destroyed, the loss being about $200.00. The furniture and contents of the house were moved to places of safety. The fire is supposed to have been started by the burning of a waste pasket in the rear of the house and being a frame structure it did not take the flames long to communicate with it. The very prompt arrival of the Hamiltons saved surrounding buildings.

Fred Atkinson Dead.

Mrs. W. Dean Sampson received a telegram yesterday morning from Arizona stating that Fred Atkinson, her son by a former husband, died Tuesday evening in a hospital at Phoenix, after an illness of about ten days with typhoid fever. The Masonic order is to have charge of the burial.

Mr. Atkinson had a fine position in the government reclamation service, his home being near Mesa. He was 33 years of age, and leaves a widow but no children. Mrs. Sampson visited them about a year ago. She is, of course, much affected by the news, and deep sympathy is felt for her.—Tunkhannock, Pa., Republican, April 6, 1911.

Mr. Atkison was a graduate of Emhigh school.

Reported Murder.

Mr. Robert Moore, fireman for the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Powder Company at the Climax Works, received a message Sunday evening announcing the sudden death of his father at Paulsboro, N. J. Mr. Moore left on train 12 for the above city, where the funeral will take place. Later reports say that Mr. Moore's father is thought to have been a victim of foul play and that he was undoubtedly murdered.

Pleasantly Entertained.

Prof. Ezra Smith, who has just closed a very successful term of School at Sterling Run, while en route for his home at Austin, stopped off and visited with friends in Rick Valley over Sunday. On Monday evening, he. with a few friends, were delightfully entertained at the home of Mr. Frank Swesey. A varied musical programme was rendered. Refreshments were served at a late hour, after which all departed for their homes well pleased with the evening's entertainment.

Miss Pearl McGrain of this place, who has resided at Daytona, Florida, for some months, sends ye editor a beautiful scene of that popular resort, for which she has our thanks upon the, occasion of an automobile parade along the Beach. It must be a lovely place to pass the winter months and we do not blame our more fortunate citizens for hiking to Florida.

No admission will be charged. Unaccompanied children will not be allowed in the building during the exercises.

Clarion Normal's Appropriation.

A bill appropriating one hundred and eight thousand ($108,000) dollars to the Clarion State Normal School has been introduced in the Legislature. The bill provides: (1) for erecting a boys' dormitory to cost seventy thousand ($70,000) dollars; (2) for erecting, furnishing and equipping a gynasium twenty thousand ($20,000) dollars; (3) for establishing and equipping a water plant ten thousand ($10,000) dollars; (4) for furnishing and equipping an electric lighting plant eight thousand ($8,000) dollars.

This school has had an unusual growth and the additional equipment is necessary on account of the increased attendance. Within five years the enrollment has practically doubled.

Free Lecture.

A public meeting will be held, under the auspices of the division of Zoology of the State Department of Agriculture, in the orchard of F. X. Blumle, near Emporium, on Friday, April 14th, 1911, at one o'clock, p. m. At this meeting lectures will be delivered upon horticultural subjects with special reference to pest warfare, and methods of practical orchard work demonstrated by special agents of the Department. Many of our citizens are enthusiastically in favor of an organization for the extensive growing of fruit, believing Cameron county is admirably adapted to apple culture. Come out friends and learn and ask for information.

This Beats Bradford.

Last December a man became convinced that life was not worth while and he terminated his existence. He thought that his usefulness in this world was at an end. But in that view of matters he was mistaken—as he doubtless was in many of his ideas.

He was even of use after his death. Undertaker John A. Still embalmed the corpse and is making with it a scientific demonstration. The body is still unburied and in a splendid state of preservation at Still's undertaking establishment. The body is not even enclosed in a casket. It is covered by a sheet and lies in a back room of the building.

The corps has been treated with two kinds of preserving compounds—one intended to mummify, the other to embalm in the usual way. Desired effects have been produced by both processes and no more convincing illustration can be shown of modern means of flesh preservation. The ancient Egyptians' art of mummifying the dead was not so effective as the methods employed by modern undertakers.—Bradford Era.

While the Bradford undertaker may be commended on the success of his skill as an embalmer, we have a case in Emporium, which has excited a great amount of comment and wonderment. Three years ago last September a teamster fell from his wagon, breaking his neck. His remains were taken to Hon. Geo. J. LaBar's undertaking rooms and his relatives in Sweden notified, who failed to come down with the cash for expenses. The remains continue to repose in the LaBar Morgue, in excellent state of preservation. Scores of people call to witness the mummified corpse. Evidenely Embalmer C. W. Rishell, who had charge of the case, has struck the Egyptian art. The unfortunate victim's Sweden relatives evidently forgot their wayward brother.

A Fine Monument,

A large monument of artistic design has recently been placed in the Newton cemetery on the lot of Mr. Chas. J. Howard to the memory of his wife. The work was furnished by Foley Bros. Co., monument builders of Olean, N. Y. This firm has just placed over one car load of monuments in the various cemeteries in this vicinity.

Gentlemanly Clerk.

Boyd Emrick, of Centre county, has accepted the position of clerk at Commercial Hotel and entered upon the discharge of his duties. He comes highly recommended and appears to be "just the man for the place."

DEATH'S DOINGS.

SHADMAN.

Winfield S. Shadman died on April 1, at his home at Dumont, N. J., from a stroke of apopplexy he had sustained three days previous, and his remains were intered in Woodlawn cemetery, at Dumont. Mr Shadman was in his sixty-first year, and left a widow.

Mr. Shadman's death is sincerely mourned by many friends in Williamsport, for it was in this city that he spent many years of his life, proved himself a man of sterling character and great kindliness, and launched out in show and entertainment business, which he successfully developed.

Born in Milton, which town he revisited with his show last year, Mr. Shadman with his family came to Williamsport in youth, and engaged in athletic contests of various kinds—boxing, and especially three and six-day walking matches, which then were high in favor. The Shadman contests took place in the old Ulman opera house. Later Mr. Shedman took up training animals, especially dogs, and at death he had one of the best troupe of trained dogs in the country, which he had exhibited in Mexico, various capitols of South American state and in widely separated parts of the country, some times filling engagements lasting for weeks. He was ably assisted by Mrs. Shadman, who expects to retain the trained dog show left by Mr. Shadman, and continue to exhibit it at vaudeville entertainments, summer theatres and as a grandstand attraction at large fairs. Mrs. Shedman writes that her husband left her well provided for, with a home at Dumont for herself, and quarters for the large snow.—Williamsport Grit.

Mr. Shadman's death was a surprise to his friends at this place where he visited many times, being the eldest son of the late Samuel and Mary Shadman.

BRIGHTMAN.

William Wesley Brightman of McMillin, Washington, formerly a resident of Shippen township, this county, died Feb, 15, 1911, after an illness of almost a year's duration, suffering with heart trouble.

Mr. Brightman was born in Mercer county, Pa., Oct. 18, 1844, and later became a resident of Cameron county. He was married to Esther A. Chandler, eldest daughter of John and Mary Chandler, both deceased, and sister of J. N. and D. N. Chandler, of Emporium. He worked here a number of years in the lumber woods where he made many friends. He enlisted in the Army of the Potomac, with 83d Pa., Volunteers, Aug. 29, 1861; served but a short time on account of disability; re-enlisted, Aug. 29, 1862 and served until end of the war. He was in the battles of Winchester, Chancellorsville and the three days at Gettysburg; was in Libby prison six months and eleven days, suffering there all any one could under the circumstances; was discharged at New Washington, Pa., June 2nd, 1865. He served under Captain James L. Watson and Colonel W. W. Strong of 121st Pa., Volunteers, Co. G.

Deceased leaves his widow, one daughter and five sons to mourn his death.

Destroyed by Fire.

Yesterday afternoon, about three o'clock, the residence of S. S. Hick's located near Penn Vitrified Brick Co's plant, Lumber Township, was totally destroyed by fire, entailing a severe loss to Mr. Hicks. Nothing was saved from his home. This is the third time Mr. Hicks' home has been burned out. He did not have any insurance.

Great Treat Coming.

"Graustark," the dramatization by Geo. D. Baker of Geo. Barr McClutcheon's novel of the same title, comes to the Emporium Opera House, Wednesday, May 3rd. This is one of the big successes of the year.

The play teems with heart interest. All its absorbing situations revolve around the love affairs of the Princess Yetive and Greefall Lorry, a wealthy, dashing, handsome young American. The young lover is falsely accused of having slain a rival. His life is in jeopardy; the Princess' throne is tottering, when Anguish, Lorry's artist friend, shrewdly guesses the man and wins a confession by running his strong American bluff.

The abduction of a Princess, the murder of a Prince, the escape and reappearance of the falsely accused lover and his final acceptance by Princess Yetive and her people are features of gripping interest which makes the play so successful. It unfords a story of a love behind a throne in a delightful manner, without sacrificing any of the intense interest. Romantically inclined persons find the play to their liking.

Scenically, it is a marvel of that art. The hotel, boudoir and throne room settings are gorgeously artistic, conveying ideas of court splendor, which are rounded out by the customes of the players, each being exactly suited to the requirements of the play. Nothing is lacking in the lavish equipments of this spectacular romantic and quite consistent play.

The artists engaged in the interpretation of the different charactess are thoroughly fitted for the parts they are portraying, each having been carefully selected for their capabilities

"Graustark" should prove the biggest dramatic treat of the season when presented at the Emporium Opera House, May 3rd.

HASTE NOT DESIRABLE

TARIFF REVISION A SUBJECT FOR CAREFUL CONSIDERATION.

Seems Improbable That Matter Can Be Properly Handled in Extra Session--Good Advice for Democratic Leaders.

Will congress, during the extra session, confine its attention to the Canadian reciprocity bill or will it attempt also to change some of the schedules in the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill? Doubtless there are Democratic members of the new house who are impatient to give immediate proof to their constituents of their zeal for revision. It remains to be seen whether there is enough of cautiousness and conservatism in the house to hold them in check.

It is not likely that congress will be imprudent enough to take up deliberately the entire subject of the tariff this summer. If it essays anything beyond the passage of the reciprocity bill it will probably be the amendment of one or two of the tariff schedules. And there is none it is more likely to select than the woolen schedule, which everybody, aside from the men it benefits and their friends, acknowledges to be unjust to the consumers. Yet if the woolen schedule is changed, the cotton and some other schedules must be changed also. Involved in them to an equal extent, and in fact affecting practically the entire act, are the questions of drawbacks, maximum and minimum provisions, and compound duties, specific and ad valorem.

It must be borne in mind, also, that the present tariff law is obscure, complex and involved to such an extent that in many instances it is difficult to ascertain the amount of bounty it confers on its beneficiaries. Perhaps that was one of its purposes.

The deduction is logical that if even any of the schedules which most need reduction is taken up this summer for revision, congress will almost inevitably be drawn into the consideration of practically the whole tariff subject. And it is not in a position yet to do that.

Its more careful and far-seeing leaders will undoubtedly recommend that the tariff be left until next winter in the hands of the committee on ways and means. It goes without saying that the busines interests of the country hope this counsel will be given and followed.

Financial Appropriations.

The division of the appropriations among several committees for different departments naturally induces each committee to try to grab all it can for its department. Another of the evils of that system, as Chairman Tawney points out, is the practice of making appropriations immediately available, so that many are in fact designed to meet deficiencies in the preceding year. His solution would be to have a general appropriations committee upon which all departments would be represented, so that each would check the other, while the concentration of responsibility would tend to prevent the comparative recklessness with which expenditures are now voted. Without some such centralization of responsibility the efforts to secure economy in the operation of the departments must be largely in vain. So long as the appropriations can be obtained the departments will not hesitate to ask for them or to spend them.

Task for Democrats.

When the Democratic party takes charge in the house it will find the way of the economist a hard one to travel. It may succeed in trimming off a few millions from the bills, but the net savings will be picayune compared with the needs of the government. It will do well to proceed on the theory that the appropriations are in fair measure representative of the country's necessities and obligations and not try for a record which cannot stand analysis.

Bailey's Position Illogical.

Senator Bailey says he is opposed to the agreement with Canada because it admits raw materials free or at greatly reduced rates and does not cut down the duties on manufactures. That is extremely foolish. He refuses to let the wedge be driven in because it cannot go clean through at a single blow. In reality he is simply serving local interests, like the lumbermen, whose plea he has already submitted.

Uncle Sam's Expenditures.

Chairman Tawney of the house appropriations committee announces that the total appropriations made at the last session of congress aggregated $1,025,489,662, less than $1,000,000 in excess of the estimates of the president. He predicts a surplus of revenues next year of not less than $20,500,000.

"The extra session will cost $1,000,000." When the Democrats get through tinkering with the tariff it may be found to cost more than that.

Scored Wealthy Women.

Miss Olive Gibson, missionary of the Congregational church of New Mexico, at the annual meeting of the Philadelphia Interdenominational Women's Home Missionary council, held in Philadelphia, said that if the church women would not wear so many expensive furs, but give the money to missionary societies, there would be an improvement. Two thousand dollars that a certain deacon had paid for furs for his wife, she said would have paid for the complete education of nine boys and girls.

HAS HEAVY BURDEN TO CARRY

New Secretary of the Interior May Properly Ask That People's Judgment Be Deferred.

If ever a man found himself with a strenuous job on his hands he is Walter L. Fisher of Chicago, who has become secretary of the interior in place of Ballinger. The work which confronts him is enough to appall any but the most highly developed American man of affairs.

To begin with, the department is in a more or less demoralized condition and much of its business not brought up to date, owing to the fact that for nearly a year it has been compelled to defend itself constantly against the most persistent and vigorous attacks. Among the great problems awaiting solution are those connected with the leasing of coal lands in Alaska, oil lands in California, and waterpower sites in various parts of the public domain, upon which subject congress failed to provide any legislation.

The Alaska railroad question must also be settled. Then there is the Cunningham coal case in Alaska to be disposed of and the highly important precedent thereby established must be carefully considered. Something must be done with a great number of prosecutions against claimants to public lands, already in course of preparation. A definite policy must be decided upon for the expenditure of $20,000,000 in the completion of existing reclamation project. And on top of all this the new secretary must prepare for the investigation of his department threatened by the Democratic house.

But Mr. Fisher is a dauntless man of great force and high ability. He will undoubtedly do as much as any man could do. In all fairness, the country should not become impatient if he fails to get results as quickly as it would like in all the undertakings before him.

Senator Root's Plan.

The bill to deal with deadlocks in the election of United States senators which Mr. Root has introduced contains this provision: "If no person receives such majority before the first day of March next preceding the beginning of the six years for which a senator is to be elected, then the person who on or after the first day of March receives a plurality of the votes of the joint assembly, a majority of all the members elected to both houses being present and voting, shall be declared duly elected."

If plurality votes are to give a good title to a senatorship, why insist on a two months' struggle to obtain a majority first? Why not elect by plurality votes at the outset? The senator in most cases would be no less representative of the people if chosen by a plurality than if chosen by a majority. The best way to deal with this matter is to elect by popular vote. There will be no legislative deadlocks then.

Senator Bailey's Weakness.

Senator Bailey of Texas is in many ways a strong man. He has knowledge, conviction, force. But he has weaknesses, and one of them is petulance. His resignation from the senate under irritation growing out of the failure of his Democratic associates to accept his leadership, was an exhibition of weakness, followed by still another exhibition of weakness in his withdrawal. Either he should not have resigned or he should have made his resignation stick. Whatever claims he may have had to the leadership of the Democratic group in the senate, he has now definitely lost. Probably, too, by this act he has lost consideration in his own state and in all likelihood his career in the senate will end with the expiration of his present term, two years from now.

The Japanese Treaty.

The prompt ratification of the Japanese treaty is in the first place a notable achievement of the administration. Seldom has any foreign convention of comparable importance been ratified so promptly and with so little opposition or criticism. It is also a triumph for the general principles upon which American diplomacy is conducted. John Hay epitomized those principles—with more truth than most epigrams contain—as a combination of the Monroe doctrine and the Golden Rule.

People's Interests First.

It is idle to talk at this time about a hurried session. The people's servants are on salary, and the people's interests should be their highest consideration. As for the weather in Washington, it is not oppressive in early summer, and lawmakers can work here without serious discomfort. When congress assembles it should be with the intention of legislating in workmanlike fashion on all the questions it decides to take up.—Washington Star.

If his resignation had been accepted, the thoughts of Senator Bailey, transferred to paper, would probably have looked like the entries in a Chinese junk's log book.

One of the "Sights" of Winnipeg.

Built by the "priest" or leader of a small handful of devotees of a section of the Russian Greek church, a "one-man church" was one of the "sights" of the foreign district in Winnipeg, Man. Most of the stuff consists mainly of old lumber, tin cans of all sorts and sizes, iron bedsteads, chairs, iron wire and rods of all kinds, most ingeniously put together and presenting a wonderful picture of great variety of colors and shapes.

IN THE LIMELIGHT

PRESIDENT'S NEW SECRETARY

The new secretary to President Taft who succeeds Charles D. Norton is Charles D. Hilles, until recently assistant secretary of the treasury. The selection of Mr. Hilles meets with the hearty approval of the friends of the president. Mr. Hilles is a native of Ohio, but was appointed to his present position from Dobb's Ferry, N. Y., where he was conducting a boys' school. Mr. Hilles is about 40 years old. He will receive an annual salary of $7,500, congress having granted an increase of $1,500 for the position. Under the reorganization of the executive force which has brought about Mr. Norton's short term at the White House, that force, with the exception of the secretary, will be practically a permanent body.

That women are keen observers and not always without a sense of humor has been demonstrated by a Virginia girl. When the announcement was made that Charles D. Hilles had been selected for the position of secretary to the president the young lady wrote to Mr. Hilles a congratulatory letter in which she invited him to read Leviticus, chapter 16, verses 20 to 23. Mr. Hilles borrowed a Bible and read the following:

"And when he hath made an end of reconciling the holy place and the tabernacle of the congregation, and the altar, he shall bring the live goat.

"And Aaron shall lay both his hands upon the head of the live goat and confess over him all the iniquities of the children of Israel and all their transgressions in all their sins, putting them upon the head of the goat, and shall send him away by the hand of a fit man into the wilderness.

"And the goat shall bear upon him all their iniquities unto a land not inhabited, and he shall let go the goat in the wilderness."

Apparently the Virginia belle reads the political columns of the newspapers and knows how often it falls on the president's secretary to be "the goat."

HEIR TO THRONE OF MONACO

Prince Louis, who is heir to the throne of the little principality of Monaco, famous throughout the world as the greatest gambling resort in existence, may never wield the power now exercised by his father, Prince Albert. Although the profits from the casino pay all the taxes of the principality, thereby freeing every citizen from financial obligations to the state, the people are not contented. They have made demands upon Prince Albert for a constitution, and the prince, immediately after the expulsion of Manuel from Portugal, granted them one. They rejected it, however, demanding fuller political rights, and even made demonstrations before the palace, in which the red flag of anarchy was unfurled.

It has been charged that a corrupt condition of things exists. By the terms of the last concession granted to the Casino, about $2,400,000 was handed over annually by it to Prince Albert, who also drew about $800,000 a year from the local postoffice and stamp duties. Of this total $3,200,000, the prince was supposed to retain $800,000 as his civil list, while the remainder represented the revenues of the state and were to provide for its maintenance. Now the people assert that the prince had allowed these sums and their true destination to become confused and has amassed a fortune of $16,000,000, most of which he has, with proper caution, invested in France.

Whether the people will go to the extreme of revolution in case their demands are not granted only the future can tell. But the situation does not augur well for either Prince Albert or Prince Louis.

FISHER SUCCEEDS BALLINGER

Walter Lowery Fisher of Chicago, succeeds Richard A. Ballinger as secretary of the interior. Mr. Ballinger's resignation was presented in January, but at the request of the president, was withheld until after congress adjourned. Mr. Fisher is a lawyer, and has served in several public capacities. Singularly, he has been one of Gifford Pinchot's staunchest supporters in the matter of conservation of natural resources. He was president of the Conservation League of the National Conservation Congress, which succeeded the league and of which Mr. Pinchot is president.

He has always taken a deep and active interest in conservation. He was instrumental in the formation of the Municipal Voters' League of Chicago and was its president in 1906. Recently he was appointed a member of President Taft's commission to investigate the feasibility of regulation of stock and bond issues of railroads. He is a native of West Virginia and is 49 years old. Mr. Fisher said that no change in the personnel of the department would be made.

Mr. Ballinger says he intends to prosecute those whom he considers have been his enemies. In defending himself against those who have been waging war upon him Mr. Ballinger says that he spent $25,000 and is today a poor man. His health, too, has been impaired.

MAINE GOVERNOR AN EDITOR

Gov. Frederick W. Plaisted of Maine is a newspaper editor before he is anything else. He has passed the greater part of his life in the atmosphere of a newspaper office and will never get the stain of the printer's ink from his fingers. His apprenticeship was served under one of the old school of Maine journalists, Gen. Harris M. Plaisted, his father. For many years they published the New Age together, and the paper lives today, a monument to their efforts.

Governor Plaisted leads an ideal home life. Mrs. Plaisted was Miss Frances B. Gulliver, and for several years assisted him in the New Age office. She still retains a lively interest in that publication and, although the wife of the governor of the state, democratically lays aside her social duties and plunges into the grind of "getting out" the paper whenever she can conjure up an excuse for so doing.

Shillalah Still Useful.

The shillalah, which showed at Louth that it has not entirely lost its old importance as a factor in deciding elections, is no raw limb of a tree. It is almost as much a work of art as a well balanced cricket bat. The old shillalahs were as carefully looked after by their loving owners as is a rifle in the wilds. Cut from the sturdiest of young blackthorns, and showing as little taper as an ebony ruler, it was weighted with lead or iron at the end nearest the grip, so that its center of gravity was about four-fifths of the way from the hitting end. When properly seasoned by being kept in the neighborhood of the farm oven for a few months, it became a thing of supple steel. And the proper pronunciation of the name of this fearsome weapon is the melodious one of "shil-ally," with the accent on the "all."—London Chronicle.

Perhaps Not.

An instructor in a church school where much attention was paid to sacred history, dwelt particularly on the phrase "And Enoch was not, for God took him." So many times was this repeated in connection with the death of Enoch that he thought even the dullest pupil would answer correctly when asked in examination: State in the exact language of the Bible what is said of Enoch's death.

But this was the answer he got:

"Enoch was not what God took him for."—Brooklyn Life.

Why Maria Laughed.

Hiram paused at the door and holding up a steel trap, said:

"Mariar, when you see this trap again it will have a skunk in it."

Fifteen minutes later he reappeared.

"Mariar," he yelled, "you come here and loosen me out of this all-fired trap."

And then he got mad at "Mariar" because she laughed.

Too Costly.

"When I want to flatter a man I ask him for advice."

"I take it for granted that you never want to flatter a lawyer."

For Early Spring

THE two small hats shown here are designed on novel frames, made of shirring wire. The frames are covered with mull first and then with a light silk fibre braid in a fancy weave. The braid is sewed to the shapes, beginning at the top of the crown, in the simplest manner. As the crowns and brims are separate, they are covered separately, the crowns set on and sewed to place after both are covered with braid.

In Fig. 1 the braid is sewed row after row with silk thread matching it in color. It is sewed to both upper and under brim following the lines of the wire frame. This is one of the few shapes which can be successfully covered by the home milliner. As a rule, hats are difficult this spring and require the knowledge of the professional milliner to make them successfully. As the braid is very light in weight, a heavier braid requires that the facing be of another material, such as chiffon or light weight silk or ribbon, which should, to get the best effect, be shirred on.

Fig. 2 shows strips of ribbon and braid alternated about the brim. The ribbon is a light weight, satin surface, in the same color as the braid. Short lengths are shirred over the upper and under brim, alternating with strips of the braid sewed row on row together. A length of ribbon, and a length of braid consisting of three rows sewed together in a strip a yard long is used as a drape about the hat. A big rosette made of loops of ribbon at the side, toward the back, finishes a smart and practical hat for general wear.

In Fig. 1 a band of velvet ribbon or of crushed silk is draped in a sash over the place where the crown sets on the brim. This shape admits of quite a variety of finishes. For youthful wearers the single long jaunty quill has a lot of dash and go. It is the best solution for the simplest and smartest effects, but not appropriate for any one except young wearers. A tuft of upstanding plumes or fancy feathers for older women, or loops of lace or ribbon, or any of the mountains of flowers which form a complete trimming ready to adjust, will help out the home milliner in making her Easter headwear.

WIDE CHOICE OF MATERIAL

Many Charming Textures in Which This Costume for Spring Would Be Effective.

There are many charming materials among those prepared for spring dresses that would make up successfully in this style.

The skirt is slightly full at the waist and is trimmed effectively at the lower part by silk strapping and scallops formed of silk, which gives the effect of an added and wrapped-over lower part; a silk-covered button is sewn in each scallop.

The bolero is cut like a Magyar blouse, and is trimmed to match the skirt. The underslip is of crepe-de-chine, tucked for the under-sleeves.

Hat of fine straw trimmed with a handsome ostrich feather.

Materials required for the dress: 5 yards 46 inches wide, 2 yards silk 22 inches wide.

The Overdressed Woman.

By the way, Parisians are now declaring that the conservative woman is the only really well-dressed woman; that those who rush to the front with the latest eccentricity of hat, or coat, or skirt, in order to attract attention, are not only not smart in its fashionable acceptation, but over and objectionably smart. They have invented a term, a contemptuous one, too, by which to express their disapproval. Unfortunately, the term itself is objectionable to English ears, and loses its point entirely in translation.—Harper's Bazar.

Stitching.

When sewing on the sewing machine, if the thread breaks easily, soak spool and all in water for about two minutes. This rule applies to any quality of thread.

NEW STYLES IN LINGERIE

Underwear Takes on More Attractions Than Usual in Offerings for This Season.

In the struggle for life this season, for at some time the lingerie has been reduced to a minimum, underwear has taken on more attractions than usual. The well-fitted models, the exquisite embroidery and the fine materials of which lingerie is now made are convincing to the woman who is searching for bargains.

For brides especially has the new lingerie decided attractions. The fine muslins without stiffening are as varied as the morning hours are from the evening. They should be kept so, too, which point is worth remembering. They are most durable when lace is absent. In other words, if you are planning a sensible outfit to last more than one year, use embroidery. Even the finest swiss and batiste embroidery outlasts lace. It can be used a second time in many cases.

Flounces should not be too full for the spring and summer. The straight skirt is slightly fuller, but does not flare. Its straight lines must not be interfered with by any underflounce.

Corset covers of allover embroidery or wide flouncing are very sensible for the dressy kind. They should be cut with little fullness at the waist, for the same reason that bulk has been eliminated from the petticoat. The fitted corset cover with the circular peplum is the most satisfactory.

Nightgowns made on empire lines are probably moving toward first place. The short upper portion is gathered into a straight band of embroidery or beading. Flowing or puffed sleeves are quite short.

As usual, the handmade lingerie has a value not to be gainsaid. The French importations will always be favored by the woman with money to indulge her longings.

The extremely plain lingerie with tape drawing strings and a plain scalloped edge is the kind that should appeal to practical minds. They combine daintiness with excellent wearing qualities, and they are inexpensive.

Demand a good-fitting model and a high quality of material, and your lingerie will always be in good style.

A Novel Relish.

Guests at an informal luncheon were at first puzzled by a dainty-looking relish brought on with the meat. Not until tasted was the secret revealed, when they discovered that the crisp, brown little tubes, about two inches in length, were of celery. Large, firm stalks were chosen, and after being cut were dipped in egg and cracker crumbs, fried in deep fat or sauteed in butter, and were served with a brown sauce. In the original instance this vegetable was served with fowl. It is also nice with fish creamed in the chafing dish, with oysters, etc.

The Spring Blouses.

With the influx of new waists of sheer cotton material, the veiled blouse has not been forgotten. These, in simple lines, are made to have a new air and a suggestion of warmer days by a relieving touch of embroidered batiste or linen used in place of laces.

A yoke and cuffs, with an insertion in the front and back, give a springlike air. The lovely new bordered chiffon, marquisettes and crepes are also pressed into blouse service with excellent results.

The KITCHEN CABINET

BEAUTY without virtue is like a flower without fragrance.

Labor conquers everything.

Cocktails.

The cocktail is a very popular beginning to a dinner, the object of which is to stimulate the appetite for the heavier dishes which are to follow. The gustatory nerves are very sensitive, and if abused by too highly-seasoned foods, lose the power to appreciate the more delicate and flower-like flavors which it should be our pleasure to enjoy.

Mint and Lemon Cocktail.—To one quart of strong lemonade, made with four lemons, add one cup of tea infusion, a few sprigs of fresh mint and a sprinkling of red pepper. Sweeten to taste, pour over crushed ice and serve with a lemon curl on top of the glass.

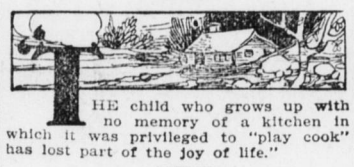
Clam Cocktail.—For every cocktail required, take one teaspoonful of lemon juice, one teaspoonful of vinegar, a quarter of a teaspoonful of walnut sauce, one-half a teaspoonful of mushroom catsup, a pinch of salt, and a dash of tabasco sauce. Pour this mixture over eight little neck clams and serve in a well-chilled glass. This cocktail is favored for luncheon and suppers.

Pineapple Cocktail.—For each glass take a tablespoonful of pine apple and lemon or orange juice and one-half of a tablespoon of grated orange peel. Sweeten to taste. Pour over a little chipped ice in the bottom of the glass and add a little iced water.

Lemon Cocktail in Lemon Cups.—Prepare as many lemons as there are guests to be served by cutting off the round end until they will stand firmly, and then cutting off the pointed end about a quarter of the way down. Empty the lemons and scrape well. Make a strong lemonade, and add an equal quantity of grape juice. Chill and fill the cups with the mixture. Place the lemon cups on a paper doily on a small plate.

Sauces for Oyster Cocktails—One teaspoonful each of horseradish and tomato catsup, salt, pepper and tabasco to taste and two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice. Mix well, chill and serve on oysters.

Catsup, horseradish, walnut and mushroom catsup with lemon juice makes a sauce well liked.



THE child who grows up with no memory of a kitchen in which it was privileged to "play cook" has lost part of the joy of life."

Little Housekeepers.

The mother who will not be bothered with a child "messing around in the kitchen," as she may call it, has only herself to thank when the child, a young woman, refuses to interest herself in cooking and household affairs. It is natural for a little girl to want to make things, and when cooking is being done to want to share in the work. Of course, the cook or mother may not want to be bothered, but when she remembers that a child well started and interested in work will make a difference in her whole life, she surely would not call it bother.

Let them have their own small utensils, use them and keep them in order. They will learn many more valuable lessons besides the knowledge they gain in cookery.

Household Hints.

Keep small cloths for wiping meat and washing fish. These may be burned after using, and thus save the laundering of them. Many careful housewives have these rags hemmed and marked, and so kept for its especial purpose, but time is more valuable to most women, and rags are usually plentiful.

To remove mildew, soak the article in a weak solution of chloride of lime for several hours. Rinse in cold water.

When grating a new nutmeg begin at the opposite end from the stalk, as it will prove hollow.

To remove the odor of onion from the breath, eat a banana.

The odor of fish or onion on the hands may be removed by a little hot vinegar.

Dishes may be cleansed with vinegar after using them for fish.

A few drops of onion juice and a garnish of a few pieces of lemon adds to beefsteak.

When roasting spareribs baste them with sweet cider.

The colder eggs are the more quickly they will beat up.

Mustard in England.

Mustard is grown in England to a considerable extent in the eastern countries and the Fen district and to some extent in the Midlands. It is ordinarily grown in heavy black soil, but it is generally believed that the crop draws a great deal of strength from the soil. For that reason it is not especially popular. The yield an acre is variable, ranging from twenty to thirty bushels, but twenty bushels is usually considered a fair yield. The seed rate is usually about three to four pounds an acre when drilled in rows from ten to twelve inches apart.

Keep Watch on the Tuberculosis.

The Italian government, on account of the number of tuberculosis cases among the Italian emigrants sent back from America, has appointed boards of examiners in the seaports, whose duty it is to report the arrival of tuberculous persons. These are then kept under observation in those places where they settle, to prevent further spread of the disease. The erection of new sanitoria and other tuberculosis institutions is being urged in Italy, and the number of beds for consumptives has been considerably increased in different places.

Parental Tactics.

A worried parent is sometimes obliged to do something like this:

"Pa, what is a transcendentalist?"

"Have you chained up the dog as I told you?"

"Not yet, pa."

"Well, do that, and when you come back I will tell you what a transcendentalist is."

While Bobby was gone his astute parent dug the needed information out of a dictionary.

An Interesting Sermon.

The Venerable R. S. Radcliffe, Arch Deacon of the Diocese of Erie and Rector of Grace Episcopal Church at Ridgway, conducted Evening Prayer at Emmanuel Episcopal Church at this place last Monday evening. The Arch Deacon gave a very interesting and instructive sermon. Rev. M. L. Tate, Rector of Emmanuel Church, conducted services in the Church of the Arch Deacon and no doubt gave very helpful sermon, as he always does.

RECALL POSSIBLE.

The newspaper, unlike the public official, is constantly subject to the recall. Any man can send out to his newsdealer an order to cancel a certain newspaper and substitute another. This makes newspaper men realize that they are subject to public opinion. It would be an excellent thing for the country if the body of citizens could do with their mayors and governors and presidents—and also their judges, big and little—what every citizen can do to the editor of his newspaper—get rid of him when he is palpably bad.—Arthur Brisbane.

WORLD'S PEACE.

Never was a holier mission intrusted to a nation than that which devolves on our republic. Even to fail in the effort to preserve the world's peace would be more glorious than to succeed in smaller issues.—Andrew Carnegie.

LEARNED LITTLE.

I do not know what I may appear to the world, but to myself I seem to have been only like a boy playing on the seashore and diverting myself in now and then finding a smoother pebble or a prettier shell than ordinary, whilst the great ocean of truth lay all undiscovered before me.—Isaac Newton.

GOOD COOKING.

Probably the most important thing in keeping house is cleanliness. Nothing could be more delightful to a man than a well cooked dinner served on a spotlessly clean cloth and dishes and opposite to him a pretty wife, smiling at him, clad in a spotless dress. As to the cooking itself, good home cooking consists in having a good cook, good raw material, a good range and a good interest in the result of the cooking. It means, first of all, an egg properly boiled, a potato properly baked, a loaf properly raised with good yeast, a piece of meat cooked and not killed with spices, and, of course, it means that a kitchen must be presided over by one who looks upon the work as an art and with enthusiasm. Four meals a day are not too many if your appetite demands them, three meals are plenty and two meals are not too few. A man should never eat when he is not hungry. And I do say emphatically that those who do no work should not eat.—Dr. H. W. Wiley.

STRUGGLES.

He that wrestles with us strengthens our nerves and sharpens our skill. Our antagonist is our helper.—Edmund Burke.

FOUR ESSENTIALS.

Four things a man must learn to do
If he would keep his record true:
To think without confusion clearly;
To love his fellow men sincerely;
To act from honest motives purely;
To trust in God and heaven securely.

—Henry van Dyke.

THE MERE MAN'S VIEWPOINT

ESCAPING A MONSTER

By BYRON WILLIAMS

ONCE upon a time a man made love to a beautiful, virtuous and noble woman. He sought her out in the cool, umbrageous wood; he followed her along babbling brooks and sued for her hand in the rosy lamplight of her father's house. His waking thoughts were filled with dreams of her, and his mind by night went drifting away to ideal trysts and imaginative honeymoons, even into the heart of Agapemone!

And one night at dusk, as the birds were chirping their good night twitterings and the approaching shadows gathered in a sort of plutonian drapery about their love vigil, she gave herself to him with an intermingling of hesitancy and desire, a communion of love and innocence, and as they walked home under the stars they were very happy.

They were married; but, unlike the deceitful story of the story book, they did not live happily ever afterward.

And because they loved each other very dearly they were miserable. Somehow they did not seem to understand each other. When she was contrite and about to fall upon her knees and beg his forgiveness he was cross and preoccupied, and when he came home all love and affection she chided him for some real or fancied grievance. Thus they lived in turmoil and ceaseless regret.

One day, after a stormy scene in which she told him she hated him, the man went away into the dense wood. His very soul was sick and troubled, and as he tortured his weary brain with ineffectual attempts at a solution of their trouble he kept on wandering farther and farther into the dank, dark forest.

His preoccupation was suddenly and rudely dispelled by a sharp rattle and hiss at his feet. He looked down and saw a tiny snake valiantly defending its right to the pathway. Being fully occupied by his own thoughts and angry at the entire world, the husband resented this interference with his mood and, raising his stick, struck the little snake a wicked blow.

Imagine the man's surprise when the reptile, wavering for a moment, suddenly gained control of its doddering head and rushed back at its adversary with twice its former size.

Again the man struck the snake a stinging blow, and again the creeping thing returned to the combat, again doubled in size.

Calling to his assistance every particle of strength and skill that he possessed, the man made one final and murderous stroke with his strong club, but the snake, now terrible in the extreme and again doubled in monstrous size, rushed at the man, wrapped its slimy coils around him and was about to squeeze the breath of life from his body when a fairy, suddenly appearing, commanded the snake to release its victim.

The man, half dead with fright, rolled from the clutch of the reptile, which suddenly assumed its former miniature size and rustled away.

Turning to the man, the fairy commanded him to proceed homeward, but on the morrow to come again to the wood and meet the snake. "Fear not," she whispered confidently. "It shall not harm you if you obey me."

Next day the fairy met the man near the border of the wood. Waving her wand, she opened a straight path before them.

"Yonder comes the snake," she said when they had walked onward for an hour. "When you meet it give it half the pathway, and if it hisses at you smile, but do not strike."

Trembling and afraid, the man did as directed. The snake, suspicious at first, but mollified by the gentlemanly conduct of the man, glided softly by.

"The name of the snake," said the fairy, speaking earnestly to the man, "is Strife. Strike it and it assumes monstrous dimensions. Disregard it, giving it more than half the road if necessary, and it remains a tiny snakelet, finally disappearing never to return. Go ye homeward now and profit by the lesson you have learned."

And the man ran homeward as fast as his legs could carry him and told his wife in panting phrases the story of his strange experience. And when he had finished they looked into each other's eyes and understood. And since then they have given Strife its own side of the road and, I am quite sure, have lived—oh, very happily together.

OLD "DOC" NATURE, M. D.

By BYRON WILLIAMS

THE DOCTOR'S TREATMENT.

LAST summer my wife complained of feeling listless. Her face was pale, and the bark of the bulldog startled her. Something had to be done, so I sent her out west, placing her under the care of a physician whom I knew to be the greatest in the world.

In less than two months she returned. The change was marvelous. She was brown and happy, and the roses bloomed in her cheeks just as they did years ago when she was a bride. And her health was something good to look upon, for you could actually see it in her eyes and in the graceful, active swing of her figure.

"Great doctor!" I chuckled to myself. "Great old doc!"

When I had got over congratulating myself—that is, enough so I could talk—I asked:

"Er—what did the old boy prescribe?"

"What do you mean?" she asked, looking at me wonderingly.

"What did you do out west?"

"Oh, everything. We walked and climbed mountains and went down into the mines and swam in the lake and slept out of doors, and, oh, my, we simply ate everything in sight!"

"H'm!" I mused. "Just sort of lived in a pair of high top boots. Great prescription, those boots. I"—

"What are you talking about?" she demanded, looking as though she thought I was about due for the asylum.

CLIMBED MOUNTAINS.

I chuckled. "You didn't know you were under the doctor's care all the time you were out west, did you?"

"Why, I never took a drop of medicine all the time I was there!"

"Of course not. 'Old Doc' never gives medicine."

And then she looked at me in such a manner that I had to explain.

"You didn't know it, dear, but you were under the especial care of the greatest doctor in the world while you were west—'Old Dr. Nature.'"

And she was.

This old fellow was born years ago, and throughout all time he has been offering his great medicine absolutely free. And among the strangest things in this world is the fact that so many nervous, debilitated women will not accept him. Hypochondriacs and invalids, overworked and overfed patients, pass him by heedlessly, although his shingle hangs everywhere.

You can sniff his great medicine in the field and the wood. You can see his sign in the blush of the morning sun, in the graceful rhythm of the singing trees, in the wisteria-like fronds of the blossoming bush, in the tinkling cachinnation of the laughing brook and in the delicate perfume of the wild apple blossoms. The woman who will heed his sign and enter into the office of his great outdoors will receive the prescription absolutely free.

Woman, if you suffer go to the shady places and gather bouquets of violets, pluck the wild rose from the spring wind's caress, steal from the babbling waters the essence of euphony that thrills. Hunt out the wild tangles where the bittersweet and the woodbine twine; look for joy in the chalice of the hepatica. All about you Dr. Nature is brewing tonics that cure.

FREE FRESH AIR.

Stay out in the air; cultivate flowers; sleep out of doors. Save the bills of the ordinary doctor who, God bless him, does the best he can with people who expect and want drugs.

Day and night in the open air will cure consumption. How much, then, can it do for you who are merely nervous and worried? Lose your worries on the sough ing zephyr; bury your irritability in the dirt of your callopsis bed.

It isn't necessary to go out west to be cured. God's pure air is everywhere except in the cities. The great medicine is all about you inviting, pleading you to come and be cured.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. An Invitation.

The Hauber Wagon and Automobile Works, St. Marys, Pa., invites the public to visit their plant, which has recently been rebuilt, and look over their line of high grade buggies, carriages and automobiles. There is no finer exhibit to be seen in these lines, in the western part of the State. The buggies and carriages are of the latest 1911 model. Following the lines of the automobile they are stylishly up-to-date.

Among the automobiles are a number of the standard makes, both new and rebuilt. Some of the latter, slightly used are offered at one half the original price. New machines of standard make direct from the factory are sold to the customer at a saving of the little agent's commission or profit.

The THIRD DEGREE

A NARRATIVE OF METROPOLITAN LIFE

By CHARLES KLEIN AND ARTHUR HORNBLOW

ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WALTERS

COPYRIGHT, 1909, BY G.W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY

SYNOPSIS.

Howard Jeffries, banker's son, under the evil influence of Robert Underwood, a fellow-student at Yale, leads a life of dissipation, marries the daughter of a gambler who died in prison, and is disowned by his father. He tries to get work and fails. A former college chum makes a business proposition to Howard which requires $2,000 cash, and Howard is broke. Robert Underwood, who has been repulsed by Howard's wife, Annie, in his college days, and had once been engaged to Alicia, Howard's stepmother, has apartments at the Astruria. Howard decides to ask Underwood for the $2,000 he needs. Underwood, taking advantage of his intimacy with Mrs. Jeffries, Sr., becomes a sort of social highwayman. Discovering his true character she denies him the house. Alicia receives a note from Underwood, threatening suicide. Art dealers for whom he has been acting as commissioner, demand an accounting. He cannot make good. Howard Jeffries calls in an intoxicated condition. He asks Underwood for $2,000 and is told by the latter that he is in debt up to his eyes. Howard drinks himself into a maudlin condition, and goes to sleep on a divan. A caller is announced and Underwood draws a screen around the drunken sleeper. Alicia enters. She demands a promise from him that he will not take his life, pointing to the disgrace that would attach to herself. Underwood refuses to promise unless she will renew her patronage. This she refuses to do. Underwood kills himself. The report of the pistol awakens Howard. He stumbles over the dead body of Underwood. Realizing his predicament he attempts to flee and is met by Underwood's valet. Howard is turned over to the police.

CHAPTER IX.—Continued.

"But what's the good of sitting here in this death house?" protested Howard. "Take me to the station if I must go. It's intolerable to sit any longer here."

The captain beckoned to Maloney.

"Not so fast, young man. Before we go to the station we want to ask you a few questions. Don't we, Maloney?"

The sergeant came over, and the captain whispered something in his ear. Howard shivered. Suddenly turning to his prisoner, the captain shouted in the stern tone of command:

"Get up!"

Howard did as he was ordered. He felt he must. There was no resisting that powerful brute's tone of authority. Pointing to the other side of the table, the captain went on:

"Stand over there where I can look at you!"

The two men now faced each other, the small table alone separating them. The powerful electrolier overhead cast its light full on Howard's haggard face and on the captain's scowling features. Suddenly Maloney turned off every electric light except the lights in the electrolier, the glare of which was intensified by the surrounding darkness. The rest of the room was in shadow. One saw only these two figures standing vividly out in the strong light—the white-faced prisoner and his stalwart inquisitor. In the dark background stood Policeman Delaney. Close at hand was Maloney taking notes.

"You did it, and you know you did it!" thundered the captain, fixing his eyes on his trembling victim.

"I did not do it," replied Howard slowly and firmly, returning the policeman's stare.

"You're lying!" shouted the captain.

"I'm not lying," replied Howard calmly.

The captain glared at him for a moment and then suddenly tried new tactics.

"Why did you come here?" he demanded.

"I came to borrow money."

"Did you get it?"

"No—he said he couldn't give it to me."

"Then you killed him."

"I did not kill him," replied Howard positively.

Thus the searching examination went on, mercilessly, tirelessly. The same questions, the same answers, the same accusations, the same denials, hour after hour. The captain was tired, but being a giant in physique, he could stand it. He knew that his victim could not. It was only a question of time when the latter's resistance would be weakened. Then he would stop lying and tell the truth. That's all he wanted—the truth.

"You shot him!"

"I did not."

"You're lying!"

"I'm not lying—it's the truth."

So it went on, hour after hour, relentlessly, pitilessly, while the patient Maloney, in the obscure background, took notes.

CHAPTER X.

The clock ticked on, and still the merciless browbeating went on. They had been at it now five long, weary hours. Through the blinds the gray daylight outside was creeping its way in. All the policemen were exhausted. The prisoner was on the verge of collapse. Maloney and Patrolman Delaney were dozing on chairs, but Capt. Clinton, a marvel of iron will and physical strength, never relaxed for a moment. Not allowing himself to weaken or show signs of fatigue, he kept pounding the unhappy youth with searching questions.

By this time Howard's condition was pitiable to witness. His face was white as death. His trembling lips could hardly articulate. It was with the greatest difficulty that he kept on his feet. Every moment he seemed about to fall. At times he clutched the table nervously, for fear he would stumble. Several times, through sheer exhaustion, he sat down. The act was almost involuntary. Nature was giving way.

"I can't stand any more," he murmured. "What's the good of all these questions? I tell you I didn't do it."

He sank helplessly on to a chair. His eyes rolled in his head. He looked as if he would faint.

"Stand up!" thundered the captain angrily.

Howard obeyed mechanically, although he reeled in the effort. To steady himself, he caught hold of the table. His strength was fast ebbing. He was losing his power to resist. The captain saw he was weakening, and he smiled with satisfaction. He'd soon get a confession out of him. Suddenly bending forward, so that his fierce, determined stare glared right into Howard's half closed eyes, he shouted:

"You did it and you know you did!"

"No—I—" replied Howard weakly.

"These repeated denials are useless!" shouted the captain. "There's already enough evidence to send you to the chair!"

"Why Did You Come Here?"

Howard shook his head helplessly. Weakly he replied:

"This constant questioning is making me dizzy. Good God! What's the use of questioning me and questioning me? I know nothing about it."

"Why did you come here?" thundered the captain.

"I've told you over and over again. We're old friends. I came to borrow money. He owed me a few hundred dollars when we were at college together, and I tried to get it. I've told you so many times. You won't believe me. My brain is tired. I'm thoroughly exhausted. Please let me go. My poor wife won't know what's the matter."

"Never mind about your wife," growled the captain. "We've sent for her. How much did you try to borrow?"

Howard was silent a moment, as if racking his brain, trying to remember.

"A thousand—two thousand. I forget. I think one thousand."

"Did he say he'd lend you the money?" demanded the inquisitor.

"No," replied the prisoner, with hesitation. He couldn't—he—poor chap—he—"

"Ah!" snapped the captain. "He refused—that led to words. There was a quarrel, and—" Suddenly leaning forward until his face almost touched Howard's, he hissed rather than spoke: "You shot him!"

Howard gave an involuntary step backward, as if he realized the trap being laid for him.

"No, no!" he cried.

Quickly following up his advantage, Capt. Clinton shouted dramatically:

"You lie! He was found on the floor in this room—dead. You were trying to get out of the house without being seen. You hadn't even stopped to wash the blood off your hands. All you fellers make mistakes. You relied on getting away unseen. You never stopped to think that the blood on your hands would betray you." Gruffly he added: "Now, come, what's the use of wasting all this time? It won't go so hard with you if you own up. You killed Robert Underwood!"

Howard shook his head. There was a pathetic expression of helplessness on his face.

"I didn't kill him," he faltered. "I was asleep on that sofa. I woke up. It was dark. I went out. I wanted to get home. My wife was waiting for me."

"Now I've caught you lying," interrupted the captain quickly. "You told the coroner you saw the dead man and feared you would be suspected of his murder, and so tried to get away unseen." Turning to his men, he added: "How is that, Maloney? Did the prisoner say that?"

The sergeant consulted his back notes, and replied:

"Yes, Cap', that's what he said."

Suddenly Capt. Clinton drew from his hip pocket the revolver which he had found on the floor near the dead man's body. The supreme test was about to be made. The wily police captain would now play his trump card. It was not without reason that his enemies charged him with employing unlawful methods in conducting his inquisitorial examinations.

"Stop your lying!" he said fiercely. "Tell the truth, or we'll keep you here until you do. The motive is clear. You came for money. You were refused, and you did the trick."

Suddenly producing the revolver, and holding it well under the light, so that the rays from the electrolier fell directly on its highly polished surface, he shouted:

"Howard Jeffries, you shot Robert Underwood, and you shot him with this pistol!"

Howard gazed at the shining surface of the metal as if fascinated. He spoke not a word, but his eyes became riveted on the weapon until his face assumed a vacant stare. From the scientific standpoint, the act of hypnotism had been accomplished. In his nervous and overfatigued state, added to his susceptibility to quick hypnosis, he was now directly under the influence of Capt. Clinton's stronger will. He was completely receptive. The past seemed all a blur on his mind. He saw the flash of steel and the police captain's angry, determined-looking face. He felt he was powerless to resist that will any longer. He stepped back and gave a shudder, averting his eyes from the blinding steel. Capt. Clinton quickly followed up his advantage:

"You committed this crime, Howard Jeffries!" he shouted, fixing him with a stare. To his subordinate he shouted: "Didn't he, Maloney?"

"He killed him all right," echoed Maloney.

His eyes still fixed on those of his victim, and approaching his face close to his, the captain shouted:

"You did it, Jeffries! Come on, own up! Let's have the truth! You shot Robert Underwood with this revolver. You did it, and you can't deny it! You know you can't deny it! Speak!" he thundered. "You did it!"

Howard, his eyes still fixed on the shining pistol, repeated, as if reciting a lesson:

"I did it!"

Quickly Capt. Clinton signaled to Maloney to approach nearer with his note-book. The detective sergeant took his place immediately back of Howard. The captain turned to his prisoner:

"You shot Robert Underwood!"

"I shot Robert Underwood," repeated Howard mechanically.

"You quarreled!"

"We quarreled."

"You came here for money!"

"I came here for money."

"He refused to give it to you!"

"He refused to give it to me."

"There was a quarrel!"

"There was a quarrel."

"You drew that pistol!"

"I drew that pistol."

"And shot him!"

"And shot him."

Capt. Clinton smiled triumphantly.

"That's all," he said.

Howard collapsed into a chair. His head dropped forward on his breast, as if he were asleep. Capt. Clinton yawned and looked at his watch. Turning to Maloney, he said with a chuckle:

"By George; it's taken five hours to get it out of him!"

Maloney turned out the electric lights and went to pull up the window shades, letting the bright daylight stream into the room. Suddenly there was a ring at the front door. Officer Delaney opened, and Dr. Bernstein entered. Advancing into the room, he shook hands with the captain.

"I'm sorry I couldn't come before, captain. I was out when I got the call. Where's the body?"

The captain pointed to the inner room.

"In there."

After glancing curiously at Howard, the doctor disappeared into the inner room.

Capt. Clinton turned to Maloney.

"Well, Maloney, I guess our work is done here. We want to get the prisoner over to the station, then make out a charge of murder, and prepare the full confession to submit to the magistrate. Have everything ready by nine o'clock. Meantime, I'll go down and see the newspaper boys. I guess there's a bunch of them down there. Of course, it's too late for the morning papers, but it's a bully good story for the afternoon editions. Delaney, you're responsible for the prisoner. Better handcuff him."

The patrolman was just putting the manacles on Howard's wrists when Dr. Bernstein re-entered from the inner room. The captain turned.

"Well, have you seen your man?" he asked.

The doctor nodded.

"Found a bullet wound in his head," he said. "Flesh all burned—must have been pretty close range. It might have been a case of suicide."

Capt. Clinton frowned. He didn't like suggestions of that kind after a confession which had cost him five hours' work to procure.

"Suicide?" he sneered. "Say, doctor, did you happen to notice what side of the head the wound was on?"

Dr. Bernstein reflected a moment.

"Ah, yes. Now I come to think of it, it was the left side."

"Precisely," sneered the captain. "I never heard of a suicide shooting himself in the left temple. Don't worry, doctor, it's murder, all right." Pointing with a jerk of his finger toward Howard, he added: "And we've got the man who did the job."

Officer Delaney approached his chief and spoke to him in a low tone. The captain frowned and looked toward his prisoner. Then, turning toward the officer, he said:

"Is the wife downstairs?"

The officer nodded.

"Yes, sir; they just telephoned."

"Then let her come up," said the captain. "She may know something."

Delaney returned to the telephone and Dr. Bernstein turned to the captain:

"Say what you will, captain, I'm not at all sure that Underwood did not do this himself."

"Ain't you? Well, I am," replied the captain with a sneer. Pointing again to Howard, he said:

"This man has just confessed to the shooting."

At that moment the front door opened and Annie Jeffries came in escorted by an officer. She was pale and frightened, and looked timidly at the group of strange and serious-looking men present. Then her eyes went round the room in search of her husband. She saw him seemingly asleep in an armchair, his wrists manacled in front of him. With a frightened exclamation she sprang forward, but Officer Delaney intercepted her. Capt. Clinton turned around angrily at the interruption.

"Keep the woman quiet till she's wanted!" he growled.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

As You Like It.

The aged, worn, and guileless-looking individual sauntered up to the desk of the clerk in a southern hotel, and quavered, as he drew from his wallet a yellow bill, "Friend, will you kindly give me five silver dollars in exchange for this memento of the good old confederate days?"

The clerk glanced quickly at the proffered bill, smiled to himself, tossed it into the drawer, and counted out the five dollars. When the guileless-looking individual had gone, the clerk examined the bill he had just taken in. He found that it was, or was not, a good U. S. bill. Either way you take it, it makes a story. It has never been decided which is the better way. —Puck.

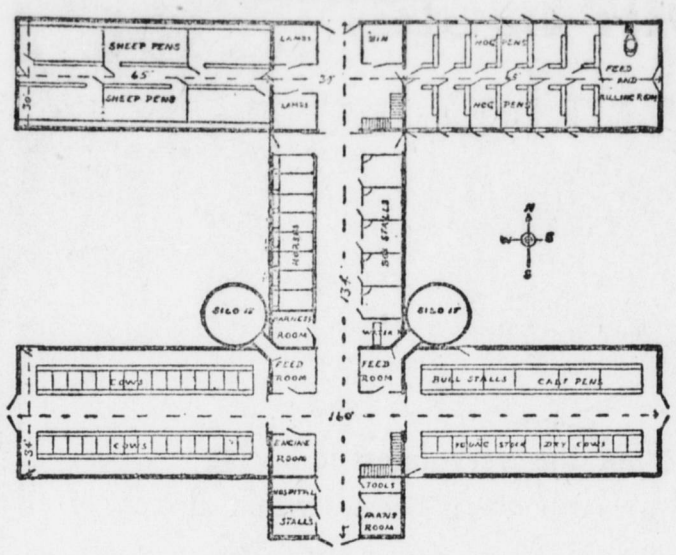
ELABORATE STOCK BARN FOR MISSOURI STOCKMAN

Rather Odd-Shaped Structure so Built to Have All Animals Under Same Roof and Keep Each Department Separate.



Floor Plan of Stock Barn.

The stock barn herewith illustrated was planned for a Missouri stockman, writes J. E. Bridgman in the Orange Judd Farmer. The rather odd shape was adopted for several reasons: First, to have all the stock under one roof; second, to keep each department separate from the other departments; third, to reduce to the minimum the amount of labor required for feeding the stock; fourth, to save and economically use every pound of manure.

The floor plan of the structure is 34x160 feet from east to west, and 34x134 feet from north to south, and the two ells for hogs and sheep are each 30x65 feet. The walls are 10 feet to the eaves, and the roof is self-supporting, which leaves a clear space through the entire loft for storing hay, etc. All partitions are eight feet, except over the south front, where they are 10 feet from the feed rooms to the south front. This is done to allow for driving in a load of hay in stormy weather. There are 45 cow stalls, three bull stalls, two hospital stalls and three calf pens. The horse barn has eight single stalls and five large box stalls; the sheep barn has six sheep pens 11x21 feet each, and two lamb pens; the hog house has 12 pens 8x11 feet each, also a feed and killing room 15x29 feet.

The south front has a tool room, engine room and a watchman's room. Stairways are located in both north and south ends of the barn. The feed rooms for horses and cows are so arranged that the silage may be dropped down the small chute in front of the silos. The door of this chute is always closed, so that no odors may enter the cow barn. A small gas engine is used for elevating the ground feed to six hopper-shaped bins, located over the feed rooms. The feed is drawn from the bins through small spouts as wanted.

Bins for storing feed for hogs and sheep are located over the sheep and hog barns. All feed is handled with feed carriers, and the tracks run through all parts of the barn. All manure and litter is also handled with carriers, and when not spread at once, is stored in a cement manure house. All gutters are drained to this manure pit.

The exterior and interior are covered with matched sheathing, which is stripped with 1x2-inch strips. The strips are in turn covered with metal lath, and the lath covered with two coats of portland cement. All ceilings are treated in the same manner, except the sheathing is not used. The roof is covered with the best grade of asbestos felt roofing, which makes it practically a fireproof barn. The foundation is of native limestone, for the reason that stone can be secured on the farm at a very slight cost.

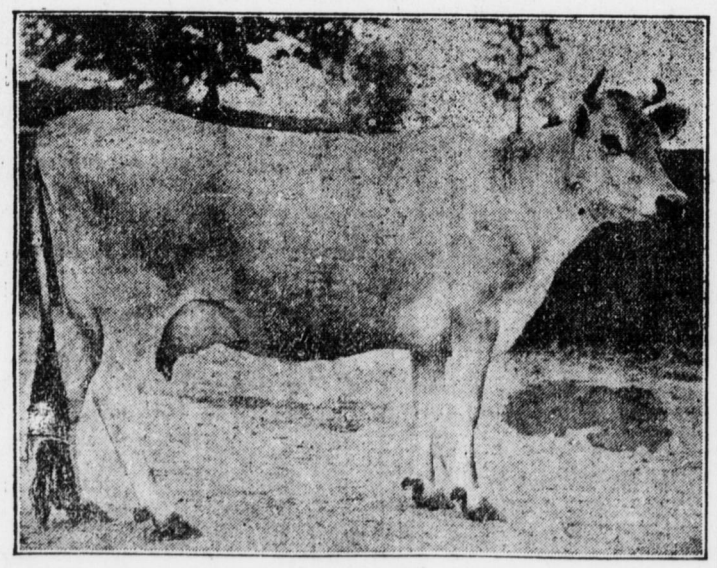
The silos, set on cement pits four feet deep, are built with 2x4-inch studs, set 12 inches on centers; ⅝x6-inch wooden hoops are bent around the outside, and are doubled, one between each door and one in the center of each door. The doors are 24x30 inches square, with 12-inch spaces between. The hoops are covered with 1x2-inch strips, and treated in the same manner as the walls of the barn. The inside walls of the silos are lined with hard-burned paving brick laid in a thin cement.

All floors of the barn are of cement, with wood slats for the horses. The horses have cast-iron gutters, but the cows have both the gutters and the mangers made of cement, and the mangers so arranged that they may be flooded with water. The floors are all trapped with drain traps, and the entire barn may be washed with a hose in a short time. The horses are watered at the cement trough located north of the east feed room, and the hogs and sheep are watered with a hose. The barn loft is supported on three-inch gas pipe, and all cow stalls are of wood, with wire guards on top. This barn is doubtless too large for many of us, but there are many things to be learned from it.

Ensilage.

Ensilage is one of the cheapest succulent feeds that can be supplied to farm animals during the winter. It is good feed, handy to deal out and very much relished by all classes of stock.

CHAMPION JERSEY FOR MILK



Another world's record has been broken. The new queen of the dairy is a beautiful Jersey cow named Sophie Nineteenth of Hood Farm, owned and tested at Hood farm, Lowell, Mass. She is the champion Jersey for milk and butter fat production of cows between four and five years of age.

During the 12 months ending December 31, 1910, on a test authenticated by the Massachusetts Agricultural college, under the rules of the American Jersey Cattle club, Sophie Nineteenth of Hood farm gave 14,373 pounds 3 ounces milk, testing 1,011 pounds 5 ounces butter or over half a ton. An accurate account was kept of her feed and her milk sold at ten cents per quart made a profit of $565.22.

The United States department of agriculture's estimate in round numbers of the wealth produced each year by the 22,000,000 cows in the United States is $800,000,000, or an average profit of $36.36 per cow. If more attention was paid to feeding and breeding it should be easy to increase the average profit per cow to at least one tenth of the profit made by Sophie Nineteenth of Hood farm, which would raise the total to $1,240,000,000, an increase of $440,000,000.

Customers for Farmers.

It pays to go down to the city and work up a trade for the farm produce. Hunt up customers for the butter, eggs, apples, potatoes, cabbage and all such stuff. Have a regular market day when you can always be found there. Folks will expect you and depend on you. They will pay you cash and as good prices as they would have to pay at the store, because they get better weight and measure and fresher produce.

ONE OF THE EARLY BIRDS.

Mrs. Joskins—That last leg of mutton was beastly tough.

Mr. Trimmins—You surprise me, mum. Why, it was quite a young lamb.

Mrs. Joskins—Um. Must have kept late hours, then!

DISFIGURED WITH ECZEMA

"Our little boy Gilbert was troubled with eczema when but a few weeks old. His little face was covered with sores even to back of his ears. The poor little fellow suffered very much. The sores began as pimples, his little face was disfigured very much. We hardly knew what he looked like. The face looked like raw meat. We tied little bags of cloth over his hands to prevent him from scratching. He was very restless at night, his little face itched.

"We consulted two doctors at Chicago, where we resided at that time. After trying all the medicine of the two doctors without any result, we read of the Cuticura Remedies, and at once bought the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Following the directions carefully and promptly we saw the result, and after four weeks the dear child's face was as fine and clean as any little baby's face. Every one who saw Gilbert after using the Cuticura Remedies was surprised. He has a head of hair which is a pride for any boy of his age, three years. We can only recommend the Cuticura Remedies to everybody." (Signed) Mrs. H. Albrecht, Box 883, West Point, Neb., Oct. 26, 1910.

WHEN IT REALLY WAS WARM

Incident Related by Mr. Bings Put an End to the Hot Weather. Stories.

"Hot in Brazil!" said the young man who had just returned from a trip to South America, according to the Chicago Daily News. "Well, I should say so. Do you know, for days at a time we couldn't take our after dinner siesta on account of the peculiar noises." "What noises?" asked the blonde stenographer, innocently. "Why, the coffee popping on the trees. You see, the sun was so hot the grains just roasted before they were picked." The old traveler yawned. "Rather warm down there, bub," he rejoined, laconically, "but when I was down there you couldn't sleep at night. Every once in a while there would sound the most extraordinary crackling noise that ever fell upon the human ear." "What were the sounds, Mr. Bings?" And Mr. Bings yawned again and replied: "The rubber trees stretching themselves."

A Fair Return.

Minister (arousing himself in barber's chair)—All through yet.

Barber—Aye, lang syne.

Minister—Then I must have been indulging in a quiet nap?

Barber—Ye wis that, sir.

Minister—It was very good of you not to waken me. I am very thankful for what has been a most refreshing sleep.

Barber—Hoots, man, haud yer tongue; it's only a fair return. I slept all through your sermon last Sawbath.—London Tit-Bits.

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Write without fear as without fee, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Prest., Buffalo, N. Y.

FREE SAMPLE OF LAXATIVE CURED THEIR CONSTIPATION

When a person has become discouraged through years of failure to find a cure, and finally, perhaps, gives up trying, it is small wonder that he becomes skeptical. And yet, to all who have constipation, we would say, "Try just one thing more."

We wish you would try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a laxative tonic that has been used for a generation. Thousands are using it; surely some of your friends among the number. You can buy it of any druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, but better still, send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell for a free sample bottle. He will send you enough to convince you of its merits, and then if you like it you can buy it of your druggist. Mr. J. J. Petty of Unionville, Mo., Mr. George W. Zimmerman of Harrisburg, Pa., and many others of both sexes and in all parts of the country first used a sample bottle and now have it regularly in the house.

You will learn to do away with salts, waters and cathartics for these are but temporary reliefs while Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is guaranteed to cure permanently. It will train your stomach and bowel muscles so that they will do their work again naturally without outside aid. Cast aside your skepticism and try Syrup Pepsin.

Colds and Chills Bring Kidney Ills

February, March and April are the backache months, because they are months of colds, chills, grip and pneumonia, with their congesting, weakening influence on the kidneys. Colds, chills, or grip strain the kidneys and start backache, urinary disorders and uric acid troubles. You feel lame, weak and tired and have headache, dizzy feelings, achy muscles and joints; too frequent, painful urinary passages, sediment, etc. Chills hurt the kidneys. Likewise well kidneys often prevent taking cold, by helping to pass off the waste matters of cold congestion. Doan's Kidney Pills are very useful in the raw winter and spring months. They stop backache and urinary disorders, keep the kidneys well and prevent colds from settling on the kidneys. Strong testimony proves it. What better evidence could you ask?

CONVINCING PROOF FROM GRATEFUL USERS

TERRIBLE CASE OF DROPSY.

Lebanon, Ind., Man Gives Vivid Description of His Suffering.

John T. Anderson, 613 W. Main St., Lebanon, Ind., says: "I was taken suddenly with agonizing pains through my kidneys, followed by a stoppage of the urine. I called in a physician, but he gave me only temporary relief, by drawing the urine with a catheter. I was soon in such agony I could not lie in bed, and for four weeks sat in a chair, propped up by pillows. After about a month, it seemed as if something burst and I passed a regular flood of water, mixed with blood and mucus. After that I had not a particle of control over the secretions. The doctor said he could do no more for me, and everyone thought I would die. My friends marvel at my recovery. Nine boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills saved my life and made a permanent cure. I gained 28 pounds and have had no trouble since."

TEN YEARS OF SUFFERING.

Restored at Last to Perfect Health by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Narcissa Waggoner, Carterville, Ill., R. F. D. No. 2, says: "For over ten years I suffered terribly with backaches, headaches, nervous and dizzy spells. I was restless at night and in the morning arose so tired as to be almost unable to do my housework. The kidney secretions were unnatural and gave me a great deal of trouble. One day I suddenly fell to the floor where I lay for a long time unconscious. Three doctors who treated me diagnosed my case as paralysis and said they could do nothing for me. As a last resort I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and was permanently cured. I am stronger than before in many years and my kidneys are in perfect condition."

QUEENS BOROUGH TIN HORSES

How Nightmares, Hobbies and Ponies of Beer Were Put on the City's Pay Roll.

"What's all this talk I hear about tin horses in Queens borough?"

"I'm surprised at your ignorance. Tin horses are a mere term used to designate equines which never existed, part of a graft game."

"Explain some more, please."

"Well, it was like this. If a fellow with a pull wanted some extra money he would have a couple of nightmares, report to the powers that be that he had a team, and they would be hired, at so much a day, for city work."

"Did all of the grafters have to have mares?"

"O, no; one of the gang had his wife's two clothes horses, drawing full pay."

"He was a genius."

"Yes, another man had a hobby about not wanting to work, his son had a hobby horse, and so he doubled them up and sent in bills for a team, at least, so I hear."

"That's interesting."

"Yes, rather. There was a rumor going around the other day that a man who owned a pair of ponies of beer also figured in the game."

"I suppose if one of the gang's wife and daughters owned pony skin coats they could have got on the pay roll too."

"Sure thing; it was a pony skin game, all the way through."

"And all that these fake horses ever drew was pay?"

"That's true, although they have set tongues a-wagging."—Brooklyn Times.

The Gordian Knot.

The famous Gordian knot was made of leather taken from some part of the harness belonging to the chariot of Gordius, king of Phrygia. It seems that this knot was so tied that the ends of the leather thong was not visible hence the difficulty in loosing it. Many must have tried to untie it, for its fame as a "stickler" at last reached the great Oracle, which declared that the lucky experimenter should be rewarded by the kingship of Persia. Alexander, trying his hand and meeting with no better success than the others, drew his sword and cut into the knot until he found the ends of it.

Clever.

"Mrs. Pufferly is tickled to death with the way she fooled the customs inspectors."

"How did she do it?'

"She didn't buy a thing abroad."

The Imperial Kitchen Elevator

Holds Everything for the Table

It is out of sight and out of mind until you push the button, then immediately in reach, without physical effort. It changes ill health to good health, bad temper to a pleasant disposition.
